*Chinese Mirch loosely translated in Hindi suggests spicy Chinese food.
The simplicity of the name however belies the complexity of this inventive cuisine with a rich heritage.*

*The first Chinese settler in India, Yong Aichew came around 1780 to establish sugar plantations in Calcutta, but his enterprise was soon plagued with troubles. To revive his business, he took a loan from the East India Company,
(the early British colonists in India)
and in lieu he pledged to bring more Chinese craftsmen.*

*Though his fortunes never looked up,
he left behind a small population of his country men in India. His skilled compatriots and several generations
after them created in India a new cuisine, infusing the wok style of cooking with local herbs and spices.
It is bold and flavorful, sometimes hot and spicy but always a gastronomic delight.*

*The menu of Chinese Mirch captures the essence of this ever popular Indian Chinese Cuisine in its true authenticity.
Enjoy!*

*To preserve their authenticity,
our creations tend to be hot & spicy.
Please feel free to let us know if you would like the spices in your order adjusted to your preference.*

Chinese Mirch loosely translated in Hindi suggests spicy Chinese food. The simplicity of the name however belies the complexity of this inventive cuisine with a rich heritage.

The first Chinese settler in India, Yong Atchew came around 1780 to establish sugar plantations in Calcutta, but his enterprise was soon plagued with troubles. To revive his business, he took a loan from the East India Company, (the early British colonists in India) and in lieu be pledged to bring more Chinese craftsmen.

Though his fortunes never looked up, he left behind a small population of his country men in India. His skilled compatriots and several generations after them created in India a new cuisine, infusing the wok style of cooking with local herbs and spices. It is bold and flavorful, sometimes hot and spicy but always a gastronomic delight.

The menu of Chinese Mirch captures the essence of this ever popular Indian Chinese Cuisine in its true authenticity. Enjoy!

HOME TASTE IN THIS RESTAURANT

The owner and chef of this restaurant, Mr. Chow, with twenty years' cooking experience in China behind him, will not only serve exceptionally excellent Chinese food but will also bring you the philosophy of Chinese Cuisine - Home Made Taste.

Chow's Home Taste is characteristic of his reputation, i.e. he uses fresh vegetables instead of canned vegetables which are used in many other Chinese restaurants. He uses fresh mushrooms, sponge gourd, squash, eliminating canned waterchestnuts, bamboo shoots, baby corn, etc. Furthermore, he definitely avoids M.S.G. in his restaurant.

For the purpose of diet, customers are welcome to reduce the portion of meat and increase that of FRESH vegetables accordingly within a particular dish.

Please call Chow's Home Taste at (212) 861-2200 or (212) 861-2259. Both delicious home made taste and fast free delivery are guaranteed.
